NEWS OF THE MORNING.

Jeff Davis is going blind.

Yessius is erupting again.

The quarantine at Galveston has been raised.

Professor W. F. Stewart is in Bangor, Maine.

Jacob Abbot, the author, died Friday, at Farmington, Me., aged 78.

The Northern Pacific road will be constructed this season to a point 100 miles west of Bismarck.

A change of venue to Ormsby county has been granted J. T. Pritchard who killed officer Simon in Virginia.

Bismarck, though suffering from neuralgia and sleeplessness, continues to take an active share in public business.

Evarts has gone to Washington's birthplace to carry out the provisions of an Act of Congress to place a monument there.

At an adjourned annual meeting of Nevada Bank yesterday the old officers were re-elected and the capital of the bank was reduced from ten to three million dollars. This action is with a view of escaping taxation.

It is stated that the departure of Don Carlos for England was due to a warning informing him that the French Government had resolved not to tolerate the political manifestations for which his stay in France recently afforded a pretext.

Senator Zack Chandler, of Michigan was found dead in his bed in Chicago yesterday morning. He addressed a large audience in that city the evening before and seemed in his usual health, but shortly after complained of indigestion and went to bed. When next seen he was dead.

RAILROAD BUILDING.

Nevada bids fair within the next few years to rival some of the older States in the matter of railroad building.

The revival of good times in the East and throughout the country generally will certainly be of great benefit to our own State in helping the construction of new roads, unless the advantages are more than counterbalanced by the high prices which is likely to rule for iron and other necessary railroad material.

The near completion of the Battle Mountain and Austin railroad, the projected extension of the V. & T. to Bodie, the contemplated road to Tuscarora, the possibility of the Eureka and Palisade branching off southward or south, and the chances for a road from Winnemucca or Reno to tap the trade of Southern Oregon, lead to the belief that Nevada may yet enjoy the full benefits likely to accrue from a well-regulated system of roads. It would not be strange of some day we should have a road from the Northern Pacific on the north to the Southern Pacific on the South, in which event we certainly ought to derive some benefit from direct connection with the three great transcontinental lines.

NEW ATLAS.

Gen. Hooker died on Friday at Garden City, Long Island.

There is more building going on now along the Comstock than at any time during the last two years.

The San Francisco Grand jury have found a true bill of assault to murder against Charles De Young of the Chronicle, based on his assault upon Rev. I. S. Kallio.

The S. F. Grand Jury have ignored the charges of embezzlement preferred against George Schultz, late manager of the Bullion and Exchange Mining Companies, for his transactions with the affairs of those companies.

This assessment of the Segregated Belcher is the first since April, 1876, the mine having been practically closed for a long time. The present assessment is levied for the purpose of paying the mine's proportion of the expenses of putting up the new shaft.

Governor Kinkaid offers a reward of $500 for the capture and delivery to the Sheriff of Elko county of Jose Lopez, who, after committing a murder under circumstances of revolting heinousness and barbarity, on the night of the 13th of October, escaped from Elko on a stolen horse. Lopez is described as being 25 years of age, five feet seven inches high; rather heavy set; full face and regular features; small mustache and goatee and dark complexion; speaks very little English.

The administration confidently expects the success of the Republican ticket in New York which, with the recent victory in Ohio, will, it is thought, not incline the Democratic majority to regard with favor any of its propositions.

THE STATE ORPHANS' HOME.

(Carson Tribune.)

A visit to this excellent institution pays either a private citizen or a reporter for the time expended. As we have oftentimes remarked, the office of Superintendent and Matron of the home is by no means a sinecure position; in fact, the duties are more arduous than all the other State offices combined. Many improvements have been made by Colonel Mills, such as removing closets away from the main building, the erection of a bath house, washing and play rooms, and making a stairway from the rear center of the building to the dormitories. This is not only a convenient arrangement, but really the best means of escape in case of fire the building has. Mr. Mills is a good mechanic, and all the work referred to is by his own hands. The stream of water supplied to the grounds appears powerful enough for all purposes. The interior of the building is as clean as can be. The dormitories are all that the most fastidious could ask for, beds as clean as any in the land; but one thing is absolutely necessary, and to that we call the attention of the directors. There are no proper water closets in either the male or female dormitories, and to this doubtless is the late sickness of the children owing. We found a dozen or so of little boys and girls suffering from the mumps; they were in a warm, comfortable apartment, well cared for, and appeared as happy as any children could be. There is now but one child in the institution very sick, and Dr. Fox, the attending physician, reports him as convalescing. Mrs. Mills, the Matron, has far too little help and especially during the last sick spell among the children, found the work very heavy, although she did not complain. The children, young and old, love the Matron and state that they could not be better used. Mrs. Mills, assisted by a seamstress, makes all the clothes for boys and girls. The goods are purchased in California and are of the best material. The dining room has been whitewashed, papered and painted, and Colonel Mills has hung up a lot of his own pictures, making the room as pleasant looking as any in a metropolitan hotel. We state that, in our opinion, the State orphans are in excellent hands and further, that no amount of coin would induce this reporter to change places with the Superintendent. It may be well for those who seem anxious to criticize the acts of public officials to pay a visit to the State Orphan's Home and see for themselves.

SENATOR CONKLING'S TRIUMPH.

Senator Conkling has excellent reasons to be gratified by the voluntary appearance of Secretary Evarts in the Cooper Union as an advocate of the election of Mr. Cornell for Governor of New York, and incidentally of the re-nomination of President Hayes' predecessor as the Republican candidate for a third term. The announcements volunteered by Senator Blaine and Secretary Sherman that they will follow Mr. Evarts must also be gratifying to him. The Senator's return to his Congressional labors at the beginning of the long session in December seems likely to be attended with all the accompaniments of a Roman triumph. "A triumph," says Dr. William Smith, the learned British authority concerning classical antiquities, "was a solemn procession, in which a victorious General (Mr. Conkling) entered the city of Rome (Washington) in a chariot drawn by four horses. He was preceded by the captives (Messrs. Evarts, Blaine and Sherman) and by the spoils of war (the fruits of the New York election), followed by his troops (the stalwarts), and after passing in state along the Via Sacra (Pennsylvania avenue) ascended to the Capitol to offer sacrifices in the Temple of Jupiter (General Grant)." The unprecedented feature of the occasion and the highest tribute to Senator Conkling's skillful generalship consists in the fact that the surrender of all these distinguished captives is voluntary. In the times of ancient Rome captive kings were known to poison themselves rather than be led in a triumph, but Messrs. Evarts, Blaine and Sherman put a cheerful face on it. The former even cracks jokes upon his situation. He seldom has been merrier than he was in the Cooper Union Tuesday night. There is a serious risk, however, that captives used to undergo a Roman triumph, with which it is prudent for Messrs. Evarts, Blaine and Sherman and their political friends to acquaint themselves, so as to be prepared to encounter it with fortitude. "Just as the pomp was ascending the Capitoline Hill," says Dr. Smith, "some of the hostile chiefs were led aside into the adjoining prison and put to death, a custom so barbarous that we could scarcely believe that it existed in a civilized age were it not attested by the most unquestionable evidence."—[N. Y. Herald.]

THE ANTI-RAILROAD PAPER.

This morning the following dispatch was received at the V. & T. R. R. office: "Conlon, the special reporter of the Virginia Chronicle, wishes to go on the 10 A. M. train to Carson. Can he go?" Superintendent Yerington answered promptly, "Yes, let him come." And he came. McCarthy has abused the V. & T. and its officials persistently, but still requests passes for his reporters. Let the people make note.—[Tribune.]

The Clinton mill owned by the Pacific Wood and Lumber Co. is being rapidly completed.

In about ten days it will be in perfect running order. It has a splendid frame work, equal if not superior to any mill on the river. Its capacity will be upwards of 40,000 feet per day. Until ice prevents the logs from being hauled in the pond, this mill will be run to its fullest capacity.—[Truckee Republican.]

Mr. and Mrs. Stratton (Tom Thumb)

live at Middleboro, Massachusetts, in a three-story wooden mansion, tastefully painted, with piazzas and bay windows commanding an extensive view of variegated scenery. The house is luxuriantly furnished, and among other objects of interest are a diminutive sewing machine and the General's grand piano, two feet high.

SOME NATURAL HISTORY—THE EDITOR.

"What ferocious looking animal is this?"
"That is the editor."
"Indeed! Are they very dangerous?"
"Sometimes. When cornered up they have been known to be quite combative, and again they have been known to go through a convenient back window. Generally they are mild and passive."
"When are they most dangerous?"
"When intruded upon by a book agent who wants a forty-line local for a seventy-five cent book, or a poet with verses about gentle Spring."
"Are editors cross to each other?"
"Only when separated by several blocks of buildings."
"Do they have fearful combats with each other?"
"Occasionally, when they go out in opposite directions, and come upon each other by accident."
"Are editors ever cowhided?"
"Sometimes the small ones are, but the big ones are rarely ever molested."
"Do editors eat?"
"They do. It was formerly supposed that they ate at long intervals and upon rare occasions, but it is now an authenticated fact that they eat a great deal when they can get it."
"What kind of food do they like best?"
"They are not very particular. While they won't refuse quail on toast, fried crab or roast turkey about Christmas time, they have been known to make a hearty repast off a dish of cold turnips and consumptive herring."
"Can they eat concert tickets?"
"We believe not. Some people have gained this continuous impression from false teachings in early life, but no authenticated instance of such a thing is on record."
"Do editors go free into shows?"
"They do when they give dollar and a half local for a twenty-five cent ticket."
"Are all editors bald, like this one?"
"No; only the married ones are bald. But let us pass on, the editor does not like to be stared at."

GOLD MINING IN GEORGIA.

Georgia's gold mines are proving quite a source of profit, though most of them are yet worked by the simplest methods. The gold craze began in 1847, when nuggets, some of them quite valuable, were found in the "branches" of the Blue Ridge region in the northern part of the State. The story of these discoveries brought in miners by the thousands, who invaded the Greek reservation and fought the Indians, as has recently been done in the case of the Utes in Colorado. The gold was washed out in pans, but in a dozen years this surface mining has played out, and the miners left. Northern capitalists inspected the forsaken territory after the war, and finding the quartz rich and easily worked, several companies invested heavily. They bought the mines at a trifle, put in elaborate machinery (one company building an aqueduct 40 miles long), and have brought the yield up from less than $100,000 six years ago to over $1,000,000 a year now, with new machinery constantly going up. The Magruder mine, just in the edge of Lincoln county, is worked day and night, and yields 100 penny weights of gold per hour, or $800 a day, and the Georgia papers think that ere long their State will rival Colorado's mineral richness.

TRUCKEE'S OUTLOOK.

The sawmills of the Truckee, are running to their fullest capacity. The lumber is shipped as fast as it is manufactured. Most of the contracts are recent, and cash returns are only beginning to be received. Times have been hard in this community during the past Summer, and money is still very close. With the amount of lumber now being shipped, however, times must speedily improve, and Truckee is destined to become flush with coin ere long.—[Republican.]

A cubic inch of gold is worth $310.

a cubic foot, $362,880; a cubic yard, $9,797,762. This is valuing it at $310 per ounce. At the commencement of the Christian era, there was then in the world $427,000,000 in gold. This had diminished to $57,000,000 at the time America was discovered. Then it began to increase. Now the amount of gold in use is estimated to be $6,000,000,000. Yet all this welded into one mass would be contained in a cube of twenty-six feet.

A $15,000 mill is being erected at Como.

Michael Keane was seriously injured in the Alta mine yesterday.

NEW TO-DAY.
